

According to the reports the front part of the house was looted and they were all sitting on the back porch shortly after 8 o'clock when one of the men started upstairs. A few seconds later the owner started down the back stairs screaming:

"Burglars! Burglars!"

MAID SAYS SHE SAW MAN IN MISTRESS'S ROOM.

The mother rushed through the hall to the front stairs and up to the second floor. He did not encounter any one, and she saw no one. The maid declared that she saw a man in her mistress's room as she came in to turn on the lights.

A green window had been torn out, according to the mother, but no one in the neighborhood could be found who saw the thief. The mother would have had to jump from the second story window to have escaped where the window was removed, and it was reported in Long Branch that the police could not find any one who saw it when they tried to run down the report.

The police questioned every servant and made a thorough search of the house and the grounds, but did not find a trace of the jewels. They got busy with the telephone at once and notified the New York and Philadelphia police to cover every trail and look.

Early yesterday Mr. H. H. and Capt. Walling of the Long Branch police came to New York to aid in the search and it is deemed advisable to get private detectives on the job. The Long Branch police hint that they may make an arrest within a few hours.

As soon as he reached Manhattan, Mr. H. H. got into communication with the Long Branch police and several operatives went to his home in the West End section of Long Branch.

DETECTIVES BELIEVE IT WAS AN "INSIDE JOB."

The detectives were of the opinion that the robbery was an "inside job." The servants in the H. H. family, however, have been employed there for more than ten years and were trusted implicitly by the members of the family.

Suspicion, however, was instantly aroused by the fact that the window through which the burglar was supposed to have escaped opened directly into the street and was not locked, which, however, did not show the trace of foot prints.

The following is the list of the stolen goods as furnished by Mr. H. H. to the Long Branch police:

Belonging to Mrs. Louis H. H.: A pair of diamond earrings, with large diamonds on each side.

One ring—emerald surrounded by diamonds.

One large diamond horseshoe pin.

One bracelet, surrounded by pendant diamonds.

One bracelet, surrounded by pendant diamonds.

Belonging to Mrs. Harry L. H.: A pair of diamond earrings, with large diamonds on each side.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

One ring, set with two large pearls.

SENATORS DEFIED BY THE SECRETARY OF GOV. SULZER

Platt Refuses to Produce Papers for Frawley Investigating Committee.

LAWYER DEFIANT, TOO.

Valentine Taylor, Counsel to Sulzer, Declines to "Use a Jimmy."

ALBANY, July 2.—Gov. Sulzer's Secretary, Chester C. Platt, defied the Frawley investigating committee today and flatly refused to produce papers from the Executive chamber.

The papers demanded by Chairman Frawley were letters and reports made to Gov. Sulzer by George W. Blake, Special Examiner of State Prisons.

Eugene Lamb Richards, attorney for the committee, made a great ado about this and asked if the papers were looked up in the Governor's private office.

Senator Frawley again commanded Platt to produce the papers. Platt said he was only a subordinate and could not produce papers belonging to the Governor.

He further said the subpoena was served on him in the Governor's absence and that he was advised he had five days in which to answer. Attorney Richards asserted that the documents wanted were public records and some of them had been given out to the press.

Platt refused to satisfy out of the Secretary's office, turning his attention to the Governor's legal adviser, Valentine Taylor, Attorney Richards demanded to know if Taylor had not said some of the papers wanted were looked in the Governor's private office and could only be got at with a Jimmy.

"I said nothing of the kind," was the reply. "I told you I thought some of the papers might be in there, and I asked you to wait until the Governor returned. I said I didn't expect you would want me to use a Jimmy."

"It amounts to the same thing," commented Attorney Richards.

After the Governor's counsel was excused, John E. Wood, vice president in the Comptroller's office, produced Blake's commission and identified vouchers showing that Blake got $25 per day, although the commission said he was to serve without compensation.

Attorney Richards asserted that there had been no vouchers in the first voucher, but Wood said he thought it was to correct a date. Attorney Richards said the words erased showed that Blake got a regular salary.

Attorney Richards read a letter from the Governor to Comptroller Behmer stating that Blake was employed without salary but was allowed $25 for expenses.

"Blake got the original letter from the Comptroller and brought back another from the Governor allowing him to draw $25 a day and expenses," said Attorney Richards.

Wood would not tell anything about a voucher showing payment of $24.75 to Blake on May 1. He identified payments to Blake of $2,400 of which the investigator has not accounted for $4,444.75 as yet. Another document was submitted showing that Blake now had a position as clerk to the Superintendent of Prisons at $4,000.

Another ill occurred with Secretary Platt, who was recalled and ordered to produce the Governor's letter to the Comptroller relative to Blake.

"I respectfully decline," said Platt. "It has been repeatedly decided, I am advised, that a legislative committee has no right to demand any of the Governor's papers from the Executive Chamber."

"For this reason you decline to produce the papers?" demanded Chairman Richards to discover and advise the committee what punishment could be inflicted on Secretary Platt.

The Governor's investigator, George W. Blake, then was called.

Attorney Richards sought to show that Blake was without experience as an investigator. Blake retorted that he was a trained newspaper reporter and had for years been familiar with the prison system of the State.

Blake said he had employed as assistants Wallace B. Hunter, John H. Rogers, Roy K. Weiler, Henry Leeds and Thomas W. Pierce.

Hunter was a "commissary expert," and was paid $100 a week and $20 for expenses in addition to his salary.

"We have started Grand Jury investigations in Westchester and Cayuga Counties," he declared, "and are getting ready for a Grand Jury investigation of conditions surrounding the contract letting and construction work at Great Meadow."

Judge Bonds Boy Home to Pray. In the Supreme Court to-day Justice Glasper ordered Henry Louis Baudry, a boy in knickerbockers to go home with his mother and pray that he might show proper affection and respect for his mother, Mrs. Louis Baudry. The lad had told his mother in court that he hated her, in connection with the breach of promise suit brought by Miss Baudry against Gov. Sulzer in Philadelphia.

Representative in Congress Henry M. Goldfoyle of the east side, whose name has been used, without consultation, in connection with the breach of promise suit brought by Miss Baudry against Gov. Sulzer in Philadelphia, said he was not the man.

Representative in Congress Henry M. Goldfoyle of the east side, whose name has been used, without consultation, in connection with the breach of promise suit brought by Miss Baudry against Gov. Sulzer in Philadelphia, said he was not the man.

Representative in Congress Henry M. Goldfoyle of the east side, whose name has been used, without consultation, in connection with the breach of promise suit brought by Miss Baudry against Gov. Sulzer in Philadelphia, said he was not the man.

Representative in Congress Henry M. Goldfoyle of the east side, whose name has been used, without consultation, in connection with the breach of promise suit brought by Miss Baudry against Gov. Sulzer in Philadelphia, said he was not the man.

Representative in Congress Henry M. Goldfoyle of the east side, whose name has been used, without consultation, in connection with the breach of promise suit brought by Miss Baudry against Gov. Sulzer in Philadelphia, said he was not the man.

Representative in Congress Henry M. Goldfoyle of the east side, whose name has been used, without consultation, in connection with the breach of promise suit brought by Miss Baudry against Gov. Sulzer in Philadelphia, said he was not the man.

Representative in Congress Henry M. Goldfoyle of the east side, whose name has been used, without consultation, in connection with the breach of promise suit brought by Miss Baudry against Gov. Sulzer in Philadelphia, said he was not the man.

Representative in Congress Henry M. Goldfoyle of the east side, whose name has been used, without consultation, in connection with the breach of promise suit brought by Miss Baudry against Gov. Sulzer in Philadelphia, said he was not the man.

Representative in Congress Henry M. Goldfoyle of the east side, whose name has been used, without consultation, in connection with the breach of promise suit brought by Miss Baudry against Gov. Sulzer in Philadelphia, said he was not the man.

Representative in Congress Henry M. Goldfoyle of the east side, whose name has been used, without consultation, in connection with the breach of promise suit brought by Miss Baudry against Gov. Sulzer in Philadelphia, said he was not the man.

Representative in Congress Henry M. Goldfoyle of the east side, whose name has been used, without consultation, in connection with the breach of promise suit brought by Miss Baudry against Gov. Sulzer in Philadelphia, said he was not the man.

Representative in Congress Henry M. Goldfoyle of the east side, whose name has been used, without consultation, in connection with the breach of promise suit brought by Miss Baudry against Gov. Sulzer in Philadelphia, said he was not the man.

Representative in Congress Henry M. Goldfoyle of the east side, whose name has been used, without consultation, in connection with the breach of promise suit brought by Miss Baudry against Gov. Sulzer in Philadelphia, said he was not the man.

Representative in Congress Henry M. Goldfoyle of the east side, whose name has been used, without consultation, in connection with the breach of promise suit brought by Miss Baudry against Gov. Sulzer in Philadelphia, said he was not the man.

Representative in Congress Henry M. Goldfoyle of the east side, whose name has been used, without consultation, in connection with the breach of promise suit brought by Miss Baudry against Gov. Sulzer in Philadelphia, said he was not the man.

Representative in Congress Henry M. Goldfoyle of the east side, whose name has been used, without consultation, in connection with the breach of promise suit brought by Miss Baudry against Gov. Sulzer in Philadelphia, said he was not the man.

Representative in Congress Henry M. Goldfoyle of the east side, whose name has been used, without consultation, in connection with the breach of promise suit brought by Miss Baudry against Gov. Sulzer in Philadelphia, said he was not the man.

Representative in Congress Henry M. Goldfoyle of the east side, whose name has been used, without consultation, in connection with the breach of promise suit brought by Miss Baudry against Gov. Sulzer in Philadelphia, said he was not the man.

Representative in Congress Henry M. Goldfoyle of the east side, whose name has been used, without consultation, in connection with the breach of promise suit brought by Miss Baudry against Gov. Sulzer in Philadelphia, said he was not the man.

Representative in Congress Henry M. Goldfoyle of the east side, whose name has been used, without consultation, in connection with the breach of promise suit brought by Miss Baudry against Gov. Sulzer in Philadelphia, said he was not the man.

Representative in Congress Henry M. Goldfoyle of the east side, whose name has been used, without consultation, in connection with the breach of promise suit brought by Miss Baudry against Gov. Sulzer in Philadelphia, said he was not the man.

Representative in Congress Henry M. Goldfoyle of the east side, whose name has been used, without consultation, in connection with the breach of promise suit brought by Miss Baudry against Gov. Sulzer in Philadelphia, said he was not the man.

Representative in Congress Henry M. Goldfoyle of the east side, whose name has been used, without consultation, in connection with the breach of promise suit brought by Miss Baudry against Gov. Sulzer in Philadelphia, said he was not the man.

Representative in Congress Henry M. Goldfoyle of the east side, whose name has been used, without consultation, in connection with the breach of promise suit brought by Miss Baudry against Gov. Sulzer in Philadelphia, said he was not the man.

Representative in Congress Henry M. Goldfoyle of the east side, whose name has been used, without consultation, in connection with the breach of promise suit brought by Miss Baudry against Gov. Sulzer in Philadelphia, said he was not the man.

Representative in Congress Henry M. Goldfoyle of the east side, whose name has been used, without consultation, in connection with the breach of promise suit brought by Miss Baudry against Gov. Sulzer in Philadelphia, said he was not the man.

Representative in Congress Henry M. Goldfoyle of the east side, whose name has been used, without consultation, in connection with the breach of promise suit brought by Miss Baudry against Gov. Sulzer in Philadelphia, said he was not the man.

Representative in Congress Henry M. Goldfoyle of the east side, whose name has been used, without consultation, in connection with the breach of promise suit brought by Miss Baudry against Gov. Sulzer in Philadelphia, said he was not the man.

Representative in Congress Henry M. Goldfoyle of the east side, whose name has been used, without consultation, in connection with the breach of promise suit brought by Miss Baudry against Gov. Sulzer in Philadelphia, said he was not the man.

Representative in Congress Henry M. Goldfoyle of the east side, whose name has been used, without consultation, in connection with the breach of promise suit brought by Miss Baudry against Gov. Sulzer in Philadelphia, said he was not the man.

Representative in Congress Henry M. Goldfoyle of the east side, whose name has been used, without consultation, in connection with the breach of promise suit brought by Miss Baudry against Gov. Sulzer in Philadelphia, said he was not the man.

Representative in Congress Henry M. Goldfoyle of the east side, whose name has been used, without consultation, in connection with the breach of promise suit brought by Miss Baudry against Gov. Sulzer in Philadelphia, said he was not the man.

Representative in Congress Henry M. Goldfoyle of the east side, whose name has been used, without consultation, in connection with the breach of promise suit brought by Miss Baudry against Gov. Sulzer in Philadelphia, said he was not the man.

Representative in Congress Henry M. Goldfoyle of the east side, whose name has been used, without consultation, in connection with the breach of promise suit brought by Miss Baudry against Gov. Sulzer in Philadelphia, said he was not the man.

Representative in Congress Henry M. Goldfoyle of the east side, whose name has been used, without consultation, in connection with the breach of promise suit brought by Miss Baudry against Gov. Sulzer in Philadelphia, said he was not the man.

Lamar and Little Eddie Lauterbach; Some Testimony From Lewis C. Ledyard

Story Told by the Lawyer That He Represented Speaker Clark Vigorously Denied by Senator Stone.

David Lamar, name assumed he admitted before the Senate Lobby Committee, impersonated Congressman to Wall street leaders to get "Little Eddie" Lauterbach a personal interview with Lewis C. Ledyard. "Little Eddie" saw the bankers and Mr. Ledyard's testimony told what followed:

On Feb. 8 in his home library, Mr. Ledyard testified, Lauterbach told him that he had been authorized by Senator Stone to go to the Morgan people. Lauterbach was anxious to create the impression that he had nothing to do with Lamar, but was acting directly with members of Congress.

Lauterbach was quoted by the witness as saying: "I come here now authorized and empowered to make certain statements to you, and to lay certain matters before you. Of course, the most important office to be filled in the new Administration is that of the Attorney-General. At first it was suggested it would be Representative Palmer, but I can say now that the Attorney-General will come from the South. I might say under my breath that it will be Representative Henry, whoever it is, he will be controlled by the Speaker."

Lauterbach was quoted by the witness as saying: "I have now authorized and empowered to make certain statements to you, and to lay certain matters before you. Of course, the most important office to be filled in the new Administration is that of the Attorney-General. At first it was suggested it would be Representative Palmer, but I can say now that the Attorney-General will come from the South. I might say under my breath that it will be Representative Henry, whoever it is, he will be controlled by the Speaker."

Lauterbach was quoted by the witness as saying: "I have now authorized and empowered to make certain statements to you, and to lay certain matters before you. Of course, the most important office to be filled in the new Administration is that of the Attorney-General. At first it was suggested it would be Representative Palmer, but I can say now that the Attorney-General will come from the South. I might say under my breath that it will be Representative Henry, whoever it is, he will be controlled by the Speaker."

Lauterbach was quoted by the witness as saying: "I have now authorized and empowered to make certain statements to you, and to lay certain matters before you. Of course, the most important office to be filled in the new Administration is that of the Attorney-General. At first it was suggested it would be Representative Palmer, but I can say now that the Attorney-General will come from the South. I might say under my breath that it will be Representative Henry, whoever it is, he will be controlled by the Speaker."

Lauterbach was quoted by the witness as saying: "I have now authorized and empowered to make certain statements to you, and to lay certain matters before you. Of course, the most important office to be filled in the new Administration is that of the Attorney-General. At first it was suggested it would be Representative Palmer, but I can say now that the Attorney-General will come from the South. I might say under my breath that it will be Representative Henry, whoever it is, he will be controlled by the Speaker."

Lauterbach was quoted by the witness as saying: "I have now authorized and empowered to make certain statements to you, and to lay certain matters before you. Of course, the most important office to be filled in the new Administration is that of the Attorney-General. At first it was suggested it would be Representative Palmer, but I can say now that the Attorney-General will come from the South. I might say under my breath that it will be Representative Henry, whoever it is, he will be controlled by the Speaker."

Lauterbach was quoted by the witness as saying: "I have now authorized and empowered to make certain statements to you, and to lay certain matters before you. Of course, the most important office to be filled in the new Administration is that of the Attorney-General. At first it was suggested it would be Representative Palmer, but I can say now that the Attorney-General will come from the South. I might say under my breath that it will be Representative Henry, whoever it is, he will be controlled by the Speaker."

Lauterbach was quoted by the witness as saying: "I have now authorized and empowered to make certain statements to you, and to lay certain matters before you. Of course, the most important office to be filled in the new Administration is that of the Attorney-General. At first it was suggested it would be Representative Palmer, but I can say now that the Attorney-General will come from the South. I might say under my breath that it will be Representative Henry, whoever it is, he will be controlled by the Speaker."

Lauterbach was quoted by the witness as saying: "I have now authorized and empowered to make certain statements to you, and to lay certain matters before you. Of course, the most important office to be filled in the new Administration is that of the Attorney-General. At first it was suggested it would be Representative Palmer, but I can say now that the Attorney-General will come from the South. I might say under my breath that it will be Representative Henry, whoever it is, he will be controlled by the Speaker."

Lauterbach was quoted by the witness as saying: "I have now authorized and empowered to make certain statements to you, and to lay certain matters before you. Of course, the most important office to be filled in the new Administration is that of the Attorney-General. At first it was suggested it would be Representative Palmer, but I can say now that the Attorney-General will come from the South. I might say under my breath that it will be Representative Henry, whoever it is, he will be controlled by the Speaker."

Lauterbach was quoted by the witness as saying: "I have now authorized and empowered to make certain statements to you, and to lay certain matters before you. Of course, the most important office to be filled in the new Administration is that of the Attorney-General. At first it was suggested it would be Representative Palmer, but I can say now that the Attorney-General will come from the South. I might say under my breath that it will be Representative Henry, whoever it is, he will be controlled by the Speaker."

Lauterbach was quoted by the witness as saying: "I have now authorized and empowered to make certain statements to you, and to lay certain matters before you. Of course, the most important office to be filled in the new Administration is that of the Attorney-General. At first it was suggested it would be Representative Palmer, but I can say now that the Attorney-General will come from the South. I might say under my breath that it will be Representative Henry, whoever it is, he will be controlled by the Speaker."

Lauterbach was quoted by the witness as saying: "I have now authorized and empowered to make certain statements to you, and to lay certain matters before you. Of course, the most important office to be filled in the new Administration is that of the Attorney-General. At first it was suggested it would be Representative Palmer, but I can say now that the Attorney-General will come from the South. I might say under my breath that it will be Representative Henry, whoever it is, he will be controlled by the Speaker."

Lauterbach was quoted by the witness as saying: "I have now authorized and empowered to make certain statements to you, and to lay certain matters before you. Of course, the most important office to be filled in the new Administration is that of the Attorney-General. At first it was suggested it would be Representative Palmer, but I can say now that the Attorney-General will come from the South. I might say under my breath that it will be Representative Henry, whoever it is, he will be controlled by the Speaker."

Lauterbach was quoted by the witness as saying: "I have now authorized and empowered to make certain statements to you, and to lay certain matters before you. Of course, the most important office to be filled in the new Administration is that of the Attorney-General. At first it was suggested it would be Representative Palmer, but I can say now that the Attorney-General will come from the South. I might say under my breath that it will be Representative Henry, whoever it is, he will be controlled by the Speaker."

Lauterbach was quoted by the witness as saying: "I have now authorized and empowered to make certain statements to you, and to lay certain matters before you. Of course, the most important office to be filled in the new Administration is that of the Attorney-General. At first it was suggested it would be Representative Palmer, but I can say now that the Attorney-General will come from the South. I might say under my breath that it will be Representative Henry, whoever it is, he will be controlled by the Speaker."

Lauterbach was quoted by the witness as saying: "I have now authorized and empowered to make certain statements to you, and to lay certain matters before you. Of course, the most important office to be filled in the new Administration is that of the Attorney-General. At first it was suggested it would be Representative Palmer, but I can say now that the Attorney-General will come from the South. I might say under my breath that it will be Representative Henry, whoever it is, he will be controlled by the Speaker."

Lauterbach was quoted by the witness as saying: "I have now authorized and empowered to make certain statements to you, and to lay certain matters before you. Of course, the most important office to be filled in the new Administration is that of the Attorney-General. At first it was suggested it would be Representative Palmer, but I can say now that the Attorney-General will come from the South. I might say under my breath that it will be Representative Henry, whoever it is, he will be controlled by the Speaker."

Lauterbach was quoted by the witness as saying: "I have now authorized and empowered to make certain statements to you, and to lay certain matters before you. Of course, the most important office to be filled in the new Administration is that of the Attorney-General. At first it was suggested it would be Representative Palmer, but I can say now that the Attorney-General will come from the South. I might say under my breath that it will be Representative Henry, whoever it is, he will be controlled by the Speaker."

Lauterbach was quoted by the witness as saying: "I have now authorized and empowered to make certain statements to you, and to lay certain matters before you. Of course, the most important office to be filled in the new Administration is that of the Attorney-General. At first it was suggested it would be Representative Palmer, but I can say now that the Attorney-General will come from the South. I might say under my breath that it will be Representative Henry, whoever it is, he will be controlled by the Speaker."

Lauterbach was quoted by the witness as saying: "I have now authorized and empowered to make certain statements to you, and to lay certain matters before you. Of course, the most important office to be filled in the new Administration is that of the Attorney-General. At first it was suggested it would be Representative Palmer, but I can say now that the Attorney-General will come from the South. I might say under my breath that it will be Representative Henry, whoever it is, he will be controlled by the Speaker."

Lauterbach was quoted by the witness as saying: "I have now authorized and empowered to make certain statements to you, and to lay certain matters before you. Of course, the most important office to be filled in the new Administration is that of the Attorney-General. At first it was suggested it would be Representative Palmer, but I can say now that the Attorney-General will come from the South. I might say under my breath that it will be Representative Henry, whoever it is, he will be controlled by the Speaker."

Lauterbach was quoted by the witness as saying: "I have now authorized and empowered to make certain statements to you, and to lay certain matters before you. Of course, the most important office to be filled in the new Administration is that of the Attorney-General. At first it was suggested it would be Representative Palmer, but I can say now that the Attorney-General will come from the South. I might say under my breath that it will be Representative Henry, whoever it is, he will be controlled by the Speaker."

Lauterbach was quoted by the witness as saying: "I have now authorized and empowered to make certain statements to you, and to lay certain matters before you. Of course, the most important office to be filled in the new Administration is that of the Attorney-General. At first it was suggested it would be Representative Palmer, but I can say now that the Attorney-General will come from the South. I might say under my breath that it will be Representative Henry, whoever it is, he will be controlled by the Speaker."

Lauterbach was quoted by the witness as saying: "I have now authorized and empowered to make certain statements to you, and to lay certain matters before you. Of course, the most important office to be filled in the new Administration is that of the Attorney-General. At first it was suggested it would be Representative Palmer, but I can say now that the Attorney-General will come from the South. I might say under my breath that it will be Representative Henry, whoever it is, he will be controlled by the Speaker."

Lauterbach was quoted by the witness as saying: "I have now authorized and empowered to make certain statements to you, and to lay certain matters before you. Of course, the most important office to be filled in the new Administration is that of the Attorney-General. At first it